CHRISTMAS CAROL.

In the fields with their flocks abiding
They lay on the dewy ground;
And, glimmering under the starlight,
The sheep lay white around;
When the light of the Lord streamed
O'er them,
And lo! from the heaven above
An angel leaned from the glory
And sang his song of love.
He sang, that first sweet Christmas,
The song that shall never cease:
"Glory to God in the highest,
On earth good-will and peace."

"To you, in the city of David,
A Saviour is born to-day!"
And sudden a host of the heavenly ones
Flashed forth to join the lay.
O, never hath sweeter message
Thrilled home to the sons of men,
And the heavens themselves had never heard
A gladder song till then—
For they sang that Christmas carol
That on earth shall never cease:
"Glory to God in the highest,
On earth good-will and peace."

And the shepherds came to the manger
And gazed on the Holy Child,
And calmly o'er that rude cradle
The Virgin Mother smiled,
And the sky, in the starlit silence,
Seemed full of the angel lay:
"To you, in the city of David,
A Saviour is born to-day."
Oh, they sang, and I ween that never
The carol on earth shall cease:
"Glory to God in the highest,

THE CHRISTMAS TREE.

Although we had something to say of Christmas in our last issue, we still have a postscript for this week. It is the home-gathering that gives to this holiday of all the holidays of the year an added and peculiar value. That day or event is to be ever cherished and held dear which reunites the family. This coming together under the family roof is to renew our vows of love and loyalty to home life. It is at this season of the year that the children, however distant from the dearest spot on all the earth, are about setting their faces homeward. There is a supreme delight in getting back to the starting point. To live over again for a brief while one's life is to get a stronger hold on the years to come. So long as the man and woman have the memory of a good home close about them there can be little danger of their going wrong. The word "home" should always be written in italics.

That Christmas tree on Monday, brilliantly lighted up and laden with its gifts, will be a loving testimonial to family life. Made eloquent in a language more audible than speech, it pronounces its benediction on every member of the household. The Christmas tree is a pledge anew of all that makes the best in life. We not only pity, but we have as well a sickening disgust for that individual who in any way forgets his early home. Who does not hesitate to speak lightly of the friends he made in early life. Shame on the man or woman who does not retain an affectionate remembrance of "the old folks at home."

The Christmas tree is or should be a tree of perennial growth, and its bounty and grateful shade should be found in every home. May no home in Arlington be without it on Monday next.

TO THEIR DEFENSE.

We come to the defense of the children as far as corporal punishment is concerned. Our blood came up to fever-heat as we recently read in a Brooklyn (New York) paper that the principal of one of the schools in that city of churches punished a week or two ago one of his boys only seven years of age, by striking him upon his person nine times with a rattan 30 inches in length and 5-16ths of an inch in thickness. It doesn't seem possible that such an outrage could under any circumstances be perpetrated in a civilized community, and this too in a public school where the virtues are supposed to be taught. Corporal punishment of the child is a relic of that barbarism which only a few days ago burned alive by slow degrees a colored lad of 21 years in Marysville, Kentucky. We are surprised to learn that in cultured Boston the principals of her public schools are still permitted to make savage warfare on the children.

An education that does not carry along with it a humane treatment of the boys and girls is not worth having. Indeed it is worse than no education at all. It makes us "tired" to hear it longer asserted that the boy is to be flogged in the spirit of love. What arrant nonsense! "Like begets like," so that when the school teacher or other does the devil's own work he must first himself become possessed of the devil. We are quite aware that we are using strong language, but pray what can we say other when a teacher with a rattan 30 inches long and 5-16ths of an inch in thickness will in a heathenish way beat a boy only seven years of age? That the principal did all this is his sworn testimony in court.

Solomon was all askew when he wrote "he that spareth his rod hateth his son," and yet what Solomon then wrote was in keeping with the times in which he lived. We are quite ready to forgive the erratic notion the wise (?) man had in training the children when we remember that he had three hundred wives. But we will not forgive that man who has only one wife and a happy home who will persist in maltreating and brutally punishing the children of his neighbor, and particularly when such punishment is given in the public school. We have our reform schools which are maintained at the public expense on purpose for the education of persistently disobedient children, so there can be no reason why corporal punishment should be inflicted in any of our public institutions of learning. When a literal burning hell was preached nothing other than the rod and the lash could be expected in the home and in the school. But in these later and better days when love and mercy have taken the place of a direful and a vengeful justice, it should be absolutely impossible to find that man as an instructor in our schools who is so far behind the civilizing and christianizing influences of the age, that he will literally torture and crucify the person of a child of infant years.

Corporal punishment in our public schools should be made a penal offense.

FAMILIAR SCENES.

In decorating or ornamenting our school rooms why not give more attention to pictures of familiar landscape scenes and water views? It is now quite the custom to hang pictures telling of some illustrious historical character, which is well enough, but why not now and then at least hang a picture wherein rural life may be seen?

All this came vividly to mind as we spent a pleasant half hour the other day in the studio of Miss Helen Pressey at Winchester. Miss Pressey has at present many of her paintings and pictures in water colors on exhibition at her home on Walnut st. Much of her work is in the line of landscape scenery. The field and the pasture, with the oak and the pine, are given a natural and attractive expression upon the canvas. The old homestead is thus seen, and the old mill made picturesque by its many years, and the old barn which is always such a delight to the boys and girls. Who ever knew a boy or girl who did not love to hunt hens' nests and jump from the hay mow? Miss Pressey must be a lover of nature, or otherwise she would not have reproduced so many choice bits of nature. The long winding road leading past the old farmhouse she has made so natural with pencil and brush that it seems that one might easily make his way along the familiar highway to the hospitable home of the good old man who stands by the doorway. Miss Pressey has wrought in delicate tint specimens of the autumn foliage. Her sunrise and sunset views seem like the ushering in of the "new-born day" and the going of the same.

We respectfully suggest that our school board in their selection of pictures for the schools under their supervision shall give the children more frequently bits of rural life. The child receives his first lessons through the eye. "Show me the pictures" is always the teasing request of the boy or girl, and nothing pleases them so much as the picture of a country farm house and barn near by and the country road winding itself along until it is lost in the remote distance. At a very moderate expense every schoolroom in Arlington could have its walls well lined with these simple but attractive landscape views. And we have artists right here in Arlington who could easily supply whatever demand our school board might make upon them in an artistic way.

If this suggestion were followed two good results would come therefrom. The first excellent result reached would be that the children would have before them scenes in which they most delight, and the second praiseworthy result would be found in the fact that our home artists would find a market here in Arlington for much of their work. Why not patronize home industries in the line of art as well as in other departments of professional and business life? And especially all this when the children can be better taught in all that art which is more nearly akin to nature, the art of arts.

THE NEW CENTURY.

In spite of all that has been and is being said to the contrary, the new century will not begin its reckoning until January 1, 1901. The merest school boy can well understand that it takes one hundred completed years to fill a century, and logically it must take nineteen hundred completed years to fill nineteen centuries, so that the twentieth century cannot begin its count until January 1, 1901, when nineteen hundred years of the christian era will have been completed. And yet there are those who insist that we are now on the eve of a new century.

Why not do away with all data, and allow time to have its way without any division into periods? Why celebrate the anniversaries of our birthdays? What occasion can there be for thus celebrating when one is nearing his threescore years and ten? We are of the opinion that human life would be prolonged were it to be kept in profound ignorance of its age. This growing old gracefully comes from pure sentiment, and has but little to do with the disagreeable fact of increasing age. Without any definite knowledge of our years we could assume a sort of perpetual youth, and such assumption would have a tendency to keep us young. This blissful ignorance would operate as a faith cure of all physical disabilities. Then "we could run and not be weary, and walk and not faint."

To celebrate anniversary birthdays up to thirty may be well enough, but after the thirtieth mile-post has been passed then do away with the almanac. That the years may never become burdensome it is essential that one should not become aware of their rapid flight. At any rate we are bound to hold on to the nineteenth century until it has filled its mission and the last gun has been fired. Instead of taking "time by the forelock" we prefer to hang on to it skirts with a tenacious grip.

A POPULAR SERVICE.

That is proving a popular religious service which is being held on Sunday evenings at the Baptist church. There is a demand in these days of searching inquiry, that the masses should be met upon their own ground, and so instructed and led along that they may come out into the open where they may clearly see and learn for themselves.

Men and women will usually attend that church where they feel themselves the most at home. It is unfortunate that there should be in any instance other than free sittings in our churches. The poor man or the stranger keenly feels the awkwardness of his position when he is compelled to take a back seat. But let the sittings be free, so that those who first come are first served, then all social or society lines will be obliterated. Such a church will naturally draw to itself the common people. We are aware that means must be devised whereby church expenses may be met, but in our opinion the selling of pews to the highest bidder is to be avoided if possible.

At any rate, Arlington is fortunate in having one church that is absolutely free in its sittings on Sunday evenings, and the present services being held there go to prove this fact. Something over two hundred have made up the audiences thus far convened for these services for the people. Another interesting feature of these meetings is the singing of the old familiar hymns by all assembled. And then the pastor, the Rev. Dr. Watson, in no sensational way, but in an informal pleasing manner, discusses topics of a practical, vital nature which enter into the daily lives of his hearers. There is nothing sectarian or denominational in these religious gatherings of the populace. There are no theological fences around the Baptist church of a Sunday evening. The invitation is, "Come, everybody."

We congratulate our Baptist brethren for the provision they have made that "the multitude may be fed," and we most heartily congratulate "the multitude." A free gospel is the growing demand of the hour. The Enterprise will avail itself of the privilege of keeping itself in touch with these meetings.

WE DID IT.

We did the example given us at the Heights the other day, by a business man and one of our pupils in school, years and years ago. Here is the example: A and B own a lot of real estate, of which A owns in his right 75 per cent. A received $1125 for a part he sold, which was 30 per cent. of the full value of his 75 per cent. of the estate. What was the value of the entire estate? No, no, none of our boys or girls of long ago will catch us napping. We shall not allow any of them who were members of the old "High street Grammar school" when we were in power to get ahead of us in "rithmetic."

Now, the boy or girl, a pupil in any department of the Arlington Grammar school, who shall first solve, unaided and correctly, the above example, and send the editor of this paper the solution, will receive the Enterprise for one year without the cost of a penny. Now, out with your slates and go to "ciphering."

AGAIN, OUR ACKNOWLEDGMENTS.

Nothing pleases us more than to say "thank you" for favors received. In our last issue, under the above heading, we came to a full stop on Tilden. But he is not Arlington's only druggist. There is Perham, of Perham's Pharmacy, who can fill a prescription just precisely as the physician writes it. Perham never makes a mistake. Up in everything in the drug line, Mr. Perham is kept constantly busy with his large and increasing trade.

Then there is Whittemore, who is known by everybody in Arlington as the man who makes business for the barber by causing one's hair to keep right on growing in spite of increasing age. Who hasn't heard of Whittemore's "Quinine Hair Tonic?" And, besides, Mr. Whittemore keeps a full line of drugs, the best, and he knows just how to deal them out.

Just call at 606 Mass. ave. and you will find F. R. Daniels, who deals in all the leading styles of collars, cuffs, ties, pins, and so on through the usual list. And he has also on hand the New York dailies, and all the leading monthly magazines, which he sells by generously advertising the same.

We must not forget to make early mention of that enterprising firm which "leads where others follow." Russell & Teele understand all there is in the fishing business. It should be remembered that their fish, clams, oysters and lobsters are fresh from the waters, and know the latest news at sea.

And then there is that fish firm "which is always at the top," W. H. Webber & Son. They will supply you with any variety of ocean, lake and river fish. Just call them up by telephone, they always have a listening ear.

And J. Fred McLeod. Don't forget him when you are getting up a fish dinner or a clam chowder. He is now at the Heights, but there is no nook or corner in Arlington where his trade does not reach.

While we believe in fair dealing, still we have those in Arlington who will give you a close shave without a blush or an apology. If you do not believe it, just step into J. W. Ronco's place of business and let him put the razor on your face and the clippers to your hair. Ronco will do you up in the biggest sort of style, telling you at the same time of the deer he shot way down in Maine, and of that big string of fish he caught.

Or try J. E. Langen, the elegant hair-dresser at 491 Mass. ave. He will shave you and cut your hair while in one of his easy chairs you are puffing away at your Havana and dreaming of your interest money. And, besides, he too can tell you something about deer and big fish and riding with lightning speed on the wheel.

At 943 Mass. ave. is the agreeable T. M. Canniff, who thoroughly understands how to manipulate one's head so that he may make his appearance even in the presence of the king. Mr. Canniff is an expert in doing the beard and hair.

If you desire to keep well just pull the bell at 688 Mass. ave. and Dr. Greene will tell you how. Dr. Greene is a graduate of Dartmouth, our own alma mater, and also a post graduate of Harvard.

If you are bound to see straight all the while, consult Dr. Fred W. Derby, refracting optician, at 458 Mass. ave. Dr. Derby has made a careful study of the eye, he well understands how to suit your glasses, so that your sight may be as good as new.

And those teeth, early care for them by calling on Dr. Yale, Post office building.

If you wish to pass a leisure half hour in a game of billiards or pool, step into the parlors of M. E. Callahan in Fowle's building.

When hunting up a mason or contractor, do not forget that A. L. Bacon's telephone call is 133-3 and his post office box 45. There is no branch of work in Mr. Bacon's department of labor that he does not understand, and what is particularly desirable, he fills all orders promptly.

When visiting the Heights just take a ride in that easy-going depot carriage, driven by E. G. Wilford. He will take you wherever you want to go in the shortest possible time.

If it is to the soothing and enchanting strains of music that you wish to listen, then see Mr. William Bendix, who will give you all that is best of the piano, violin, guitar and clarinet. Mr. Bendix recognizes the fact that "there is music wherever there is harmony, order or proportion," and so it is that he appreciates the "music of the spheres."

If to the above musical instruments you wish to add the banjo, mandolin and guitar, just make your desire known to Egbert E. Stackpole, who will treat you to the liveliest kind of music.

J. H. Hartwell & Son, undertakers and embalmers, may always be found at their office on Medford st. "Hartwell" is a familiar name to all Arlington, and the above firm is distinguished for its integrity in all business life.

To cross the line for a moment over into Belmont, the first man you will be likely to meet is E. Price, the blacksmith and wheelwright. Mr. Price is a live business man every day in the week save Sunday. His large business establishment is known throughout every suburb of Boston. In the line of horse-shoeing, jobbing, carriage building and carriage and sign painting, Mr. Price is familiar with every branch of the work.

And then that other Belmont man, though we claim him here in Arlington. Who does not know him, H. L. Frost, the florist? Look in at the window of the Post office building and you will learn something of his artistic way of doing things by the floral display that he there makes. Mr. Frost knows all about the world of bud and flower, and he knows a good deal about choice baldwin apples too.

To drink in the elixir of life, all you have to do is to test the Belmont spring water. Ask D. L. Tappan, 269 M ss. ave., about it.

It is with especial pleasure that we write of Louis E. Greene, who is a hustler in his line of business. His variety store, where one may purchase whatever he may wish at bottom prices, has favorably advertised Mr. Greene far and wide. Mr. Greene has about everything in the department of Christmas goods. His artistically-displayed show window is a sample of what he has inside. Don't fail to call on Greene during the holidays.

We must not forget to mention J. W. Harrington, practical house, sign and decorative painter, who does his work with exceeding taste and on time.

William Galdwell, who will furnish an entire house from cellar to attic, never fails to have on hand a full line of goods. He can fit you out with anything and everything you want in his department of trade. Call on him and see for yourself.

And now comes N. J. Hardy, the president of Arlington's Board of trade. Everybody knows Mr. Hardy as a man who is alive all over and all through. And those "spreads" through which he has made himself famous—who has not been made happy by partaking of them?

And then we more than suspect that everybody knows L. C. Tyler, who caters to the outer man as N. J. Hardy does to the inner self. Those boots and shoes and rubbers have made Mr. Tyler's name familiar far and wide.

J. C. Waage, "house, sign and decorative painting," is the way the sign reads. Mr. Waage will attend to you without loss of time.

Bear in mind that J. W. Barrows is the expert piano tuner and teacher of the cornet. His address is No. 111a Mechem st., North Cambridge.

Mrs. Hooker was called to Maine on Wednesday to attend the funeral of a friend.

The Enterprise is published early this week to insure a prompt and full delivery.

Mr. James Daily is confined to his home with a severe attack of rheumatism.

The Rev. S. C. Bushnell has been in New Bedford for two days during the present week.

Menotomy Royal Arch chapter will install its officers on Thursday evening of next week.

The public schools closed yesterday afternoon for the holidays, reopening on Tuesday, Jan. 2.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. McClure of Brantwood road are made happy by the coming of a little daughter.

Music sung in St. John's church on Christmas Day will be repeated the following Sunday morning.

A Christmas festival will be held at the Congregational church, Pleasant street, Friday evening of next week.

The Universalist Sunday school will hold a Christmas party for its members on Thursday evening, Dec. 28.

On Friday evening Maxwell Brooks and Mr. Elwell gave the first dancing party of a series in the Town hall.

Commence the new year aright by subscribing for the Enterprise. It only costs $1.00 a year, and is brimful of news.

The primary pupils in the Russell school were made glad yesterday afternoon by a Christmas tree well laden with gifts.

The eclipse of the moon Saturday evening was plainly seen, and was witnessed by a large number of Arlingtonians at the centre.

Bacon street is sorely in need of an electric light. Cannot something be done whereby one can be placed about middle way of this thoroughfare?

Meetings of the Loyal Temperance Legion will be intermitted for two weeks. There will be no meeting on Christmas Day or on New Year's Day.

Mr. Thomas R. Stacpole, for a number of years engineer at Fowle's mill, has resigned his position. Mr. Stacpole is an experienced and expert engineer.

Miss Lockhart will have in charge the Christian Endeavor society meeting at the Pleasant St. Congregational church on Sunday evening.

A musical was given on Thursday evening by Mr. and Mrs. George W. Knowlton at their home on Whittemore street. Friends from Boston and vicinity were present.

Holy communion will be celebrated in St. John's church on St. Stephen's day (Tuesday) and St. John the Evangelist's day (Wednesday) at 10 o'clock each morning.

Wide Awake Lead-a-Hand club recently held an interesting meeting at the residence of Mrs. Charles Gannett on Academy street. Refreshments were served.

James A. Bailey Jr. is the assignee for the firm of Batchelder & Co. of Boston. Above firm went to the wall, it will be remembered, through the failure of J. P. Squire & Co.

Mrs. Helen G. Rice, superintendent of Loyal Legion work, gave a very interesting address before the local Woman's Christian Temperance union on Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. Harold Frost has decided to close his flower store, and now great bargains in flowers may be obtained. Mr. Frost finds this step necessary owing to the great increase in the tree business.

At the regular meeting of Hose 3, held at their house on Tuesday evening, a vote of thanks was tendered Mr. W. W. Rawson for the sumptuous spread at his head house recently, to which the company was invited.

Miss Nellie M. Collins, who sailed Oct. 11 to visit her father in Dunmanway, Ireland, returned last Friday on the Dominion line steamer New England. Miss Collins reports an enjoyable time while away.

Ladies clean your kid gloves with La Belle glove cleaner, for sale only by W. A. Hodges, post office building. Headquarters for high grade stationery, confectionery and newspapers.

The Sunday school concert to be given tomorrow afternoon, under the management of Supt. Sutcliffe, in the Unitarian church will be an interesting hour both for the children and the older grown.

During the past week Drivers Sullivan and Brooks of Truck 1 and Hose 3 have been breaking in the new horses at the house, which, if proven satisfactory, will be used on the truck.

Mr. and Mrs. Sutcliffe will entertain at their home on Wellington street on Christmas day the mother and sister of Mrs. Sutcliffe from Manchester, N. H., and Mr. Sutcliffe's mother from Haverhill.

Dr. Stickney barely escaped what might have been a serious accident on Saturday evening. While driving on Mass. avenue William Cannivan of Somerville ran into the doctor's carriage. Fortunately but little damage was done.

The children of the Sunday school of St. John's parish will have their Christmas festival and tree on Thursday next, Innocents' Day. After a short carol service in the church they will share the fruit of the Christmas tree and have a merry time in the parish house.

An interesting session of the Chataqua circle was recently held. A pleasant entertainment was given. Mrs. Williams sang "The Old Arm Chair." Mrs. Roberts read a selection. Gentlemen's evening will be given on the evening of Dec. 30.

Ladies of the Congregational church and society, Pleasant St., held their literary meeting on Wednesday evening. Mrs. George W. W. Sears read a paper on "Domestic Science." Refreshments were served under the supervision of Mrs. A. F. Reed and Mrs. Waterman A. Taft.

The wedding reception of Florence Blackie Devereaux and Vaughan J. Weatherly will be given at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Devereaux, 108 Pleasant St., on the evening of Dec. 26. Mr. Weatherly is from New York city.

The Christmas services in the various churches of Arlington on Sunday promise to be of unusual interest. The several musical programmes for the morning and evening are particularly inviting. Let no one miss the churches on Sunday morning, and remember the Free church on Sunday evening.

We call the attention of our readers to the double 2-inch adv. of Robbins Spring Hotel in this issue, and to the second adv. that the Robbins Spring Hotel will entertain your Christmas party, thus riding you of all bother of the table part of the Christmas hour. Robbins Spring Hotel understands how to entertain in the most attractive way.

At the annual meeting of the Pleasant street Congregational Sunday school on Monday evening the following officers were elected for the coming year: Superintendent, R. Walter Hilliard; assistant superintendent, Charles S. Parker and William K. Cloak; librarian, Mrs. H. F. Winn; secretary, Prescott C. Mills; treasurer E. L. Parker; advisory committee, Edwin Mills, C. S. Parker and E. L. Churchill.

That new $3500 organ is in place in the Pleasant Street Congregational church, and for the first time will send forth its merry Christmas notes of joy and praise on Sunday morning. The Enterprise congratulates the Pleasant Street Congregational church and society upon their well earned success in making so substantial an addition to the praise part of their services.

The A. V. F. A. have offered their services to the town, and the same has been accepted by the selectmen in case Eureka is needed at a fire. There may come a time when the engine will be required, and when that time comes there will be ready and willing hands to man the brakes. The members of the association thus prove that they did not form for mere show, but that their motto is to be, "Deeds, not words."

The teachers in the Russell school will receive their holiday mail as follows: Miss Lena H. Abbott, Bangor, Me.; Miss E. L. Geer, Boston, Mass.; Miss Maude E. Gilman, Lower Gilman, N. H.; Miss Pillsbury, Arlington; Miss Nellie A. Grimes, Arlington; Miss M. Josephine Mayo, Orleans; Miss L. R. Warren, Arlington; Miss Day, Arlington; Miss S. L. Gifford, Boston; Miss A. B. Hickok, New York City; and Miss Helen True, Marblehead.

Dr. Watson has arranged a sort of family Christmas service for to-morrow morning. It will consist of anthems, carol, special concert readings and rousing Christmas hymns, and a short Christmas sermon for the children. The service commences at 10.30 instead of 10.45. The congregation are urged to come early. All are welcome. The topic at the people's evening service will be: "The night of love—a sermon for Christmas eve." Christmas hymns will be sung by chorus and congregation. Everybody is invited. All seats free.

On Monday afternoon we looked in upon Miss Harriman's class in physical culture as it was going through its varied movements in Grand Army hall. Miss Harriman well understands her work, having taken the regular course in physical training at Harvard. It was an enjoyable picture to see Miss Harriman's class of twenty five or more go through the varied movements, keeping time all the while to the music of the piano. These movements call into exercise all the muscles of the body. Physical culture is now recognized as the basis of any and all education to be obtained in the schools, from the primary up to the university.

Take "A Night Off" and see the Boat club entertainment Jan. 9th.

Mr. H. B. Johnson is certainly a busy man these days, putting in hot water heaters, contracting for greenhouses, and his line generally. He has fitted the following houses and buildings lately: For Mr. Howard Hawkins on Mystic st.; naval hospital in Chelsea; George F. Cutter, Cambridge; one of Mr. Theodore Schwamb's houses; Henry B. Jacobs, Malden, brother of C. S. Jacobs; Mr. H. M. Chase's new double house on Palmer street and Broadway; the new houses on Lindsay street; and is to equip the buildings of J. W. Coleman, Cambridge, Con. Breslean of Belmont, and has finished putting up a 10,000 gallon tank for Van Ness Bros. of Lexington. This shows the magnitude of his business.

Secure your seats early for "A Night Off" Jan. 9th.

A meeting of the Universalist Sunday school association was held last Wednesday evening in the Sunday school room of the church. The annual reports of the various officers were read and accepted. From the report of the secretary it was noted that it had been a prosperous year with the school, the membership having been greatly increased. The following officers were elected for the next year: Superintendent, J. O. Holt; 1st assistant supt., O. B. Marston; 2nd assistant supt., Mrs. F. B. Wadleigh; corresponding secretary, Miss Myra Peirce; recording secretary, Miss Lottie Brooks; treasurer, L. K. Russell; pianist, Miss C. L. Higgins; assistant pianist, Fred Butterfield; librarians, Amy Winn and Helene Johnson.

The teachers in the Crosby school are all homeward bound for the holidays. Miss Scanlan, the principal, is to be at her home; 259 Mass. ave., during the Christmas season. Miss Potter will be at home in Westboro. Miss Faxon is to enjoy her holiday vacation in Boston. Miss Rogers will be with family friends at her home in Baldwinville. Miss Wooster will have her Christmas dinner under the parental roof in Lexington. Miss Snell will be at her Holbrook home, and Miss West will enjoy her Christmas and New Year's day at her home in Brookville. The Enterprise extends its Merry Christmas and Happy New Year to all the teachers in the public schools in Arlington. May their stockings be filled "from the top clean down to the toe" with the best that Santa carries in his pack.

We had a very delightful hour on Monday afternoon at the meeting of the Woman's Alliance, held in the parlors of the Unitarian church. After the regular business of the association had been transacted, Mrs. Dennett, the president of the alliance, introduced Mrs. Hooker, who read an interesting paper on Browning's "Andrea Del Sarto," and read the poem written by Browning of "The faultless painter." Mrs. Hooker gave a somewhat critical analysis of the poet, dwelling at length upon the love and inspiration he had for the "divine art." Mrs. Hooker read the poem with an intelligent and scholarly understanding both of Browning and of the artist of whom he wrote. The second selection that Mrs. Hooker read was from Browning, entitled "The boy and the angel," and she read it in a charming way. The Unitarian Woman's Alliance is a good deal distinguished for the intelligence and culture of its membership. After the reading, tea was served.

Mr. Winthrop Pattee, connected with the office of Henry W. Savage, has just completed one of the largest sales of real estate which has been made in the northern section of Boston for some time. The property is located at 65, 67, 69, 71 Haverhill street, fronting on the subway, and 66-68 Beverly street, and consists of 5600 square feet of land, with a frontage of 40 feet on each street, together with three five-story brick buildings. The total assessed valuation of the property is $65,100, the consideration paid being over $100,000. The purchasers, the Moxie Nerve food Co. of New England, buy for occupancy, and early next fall they intend to tear down the two old buildings on Haverhill st., and will erect at once a new six-story building. Mr. Pattee also has agreements of sale signed for the transfer of the property 917 Beacon st., Boston, this property being one of the beautiful brick and stone houses erected by Mr. Savage in the early fall; also for an estate on Appleton street, Arlington Heights, consisting of a nine-room house, with open plumbing, hardwood finish, hot water heat, and all modern conveniences, together with about 7000 square feet of land. The purchasers' names are withheld for the present, but will be given after the papers are passed.

There was another interesting and successful service at the Baptist church on Sunday evening. The audience was very large, and the people entered into the praise service with heartiness, and listened with closest interest to Dr. Watson's earnest sermon. "What comes first?" was the topic, based on Matt. vi. 33—"Seek ye first the kingdom of God." The preacher said that Jesus was only making the same insistence in his preaching that we do in our living. At the top and front of everything must be the first thing, the greatest issue, the supreme purpose, to which everything else, however necessary, must be subordinate. The first thing is the supreme necessity, and must be given that place. In our commonest proverbs there is an established order of precedence, a rule of priority. We say "age before beauty," "business before pleasure," "health before wealth." Christ works the same rule in the religion he was revealing. All the necessities of life were necessary, but there was one supreme necessity to be sought before them all. He called it the "kingdom of God," "kingdom of heaven," "kingdom of truth," "my father's kingdom." He meant the realm in which good was always present, and everything else subordinate to it; God's rightness dominated everything else. All through his teaching this kingdom, this rule was announced and submission to it commanded as the first duty. In his model prayer it was first, "thy kingdom come," in his intercessory prayer it was still first. Property, the right hand, the eye, the world, anything, everything were to be sacrificed, if they cannot be subordinated to the highest rule, the supreme good. The disciples left nets, boats, custom-houses, everything, when he said "follow me." The "good young man," upon whom he looked with love because of his many virtues, would today perhaps have ranked with Paul and John in Christendom if he too had sacrificed his "great possessions" to the highest vocation and life. It is easily known when the kingdom of God is in the first place in a community, whether even in a town like Arlington, moral power, high character, has the first place and the passions for business, pleasure, money, or any other appetite are all subordinate to it. In the older New England that was the condition, and the consequent moral and material strength were inevitable. That high choice and passions which was always first was built into the home, the church and the state. The stable institutions whose foundations were then laid, all came from a conscience, a patience in toil, a willingness to sacrifice everything for the great necessity. They were the things "added," because men had made the highest choice, which was God's rule in home, church and state. There is little evidence that religion, or the precious moral power, is taking precedence in Arlington to-day. Is the first thing really first? Is it in New England? President Tucker declared in Appleton chapel that 26 of the congregational ministers of greater Boston were either foreigners or the sons of immigrants. He further claimed that the native stock had ceased to produce its own moral and religious leadership. Even here in Arlington you have not raised one minister from your own churches, in a generation at least. And the ministers that you have, with two exceptions, are all either foreigners or the sons of foreigners. You can make your own comments on these facts. I am merely raising the question. What comes first? You may answer: "Times have changed, there are so many things to seek that it is making things too narrow to insist upon one thing being paramount and all others subordinate." Very well, I answer, but still there is one thing that you all seek first—what is it? Is it lust, gambling, drink, pleasure, money, ambition? In how many lives one of these is first, and even wife, children, and all home loves are subordinate, and God is out of the calculation. Whatever is first has the power of a giant to bend your will and bind you and carry you off as its booty. Jesus carried his principle straight into the realm of love and friendship. He was to have the pre-eminence over husband, wife, children. Perfectly reasonable and natural for the man, whom he called, to say, "Let me go and comfort, care for, and bury my aged father first." But no, there was a demand more imperative, "follow me." Natural for the Nova Scotia missionary to bring home his wife, and expect to nurse and bury her. But she heard the highest call, and bade him leave her, and return to bind a tribe of Burmans to God. We deny that God requires such sacrifices even to the first thing. "It is unnatural," we say. Strange enough that we talk that way about his kingdom, while England and America are now sending their youth by thousands to Africa and the Philippines to suffer everything and be shot to death, and for what, forsooth? For our empire. Does God require no sacrifice, no heroism. Shall we pour out life and treasure for our schemes of conquest and take no risk whatever for his? God pity this poor, sin-cursed, self-cursed world, where there are no souls in it that seek his kingdom so passionately that they sacrifice all else to extend it.

Death and the Doctor.

Death and the doctor met at the door.
"Well, I've got him!" exclaimed Death banteringly.
The doctor was furious, of course.
"Oh, yes," he cried, with much heat, "but you didn't dare make a square issue of it and get him with the disease I was treating him for!"
Hereupon Death laughed affectedly, saying nothing.—Detroit Journal.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS.
 On account of the rush of Christmas time, there was no meeting of the Sunshine club this week. The club will meet with Mrs. J. T. White, Park ave., on Wednesday of next week.
 Weekly prayer meeting of the Baptist church was held at Mr. Baxter's, Lowell st., Mr. Swadkins leader.
 A minister from Newton will preach at the Baptist church, Crescent hall, tomorrow, in Mr. Lorimer's absence, he having gone to his home to spend Christmas.
 Dedication exercises will be held at the new Baptist chapel, Westminster ave., next Wednesday, Dec. 27. The programme of exercises will be found in another column.
 Last Sabbath afternoon Mr. Pratt of Somerville occupied the desk of the Baptist church. His remarks were very timely and stirring. He gave his experience of the many years when he was an infidel, of his striking conversion, and of the years spent in the master's service.
 A business meeting of the members of the Baptist church was held on Monday at Mr. Hector Fraser's, Lowell st., and important business was transacted in the interest of the church.
 The bazaar held at Mrs. Anderson's, Westmoreland ave., for the benefit of the Arlington Heights Baptist church,
 last Wednesday evening proved a success in a financial way. From 75 to 80 persons congregated there, enjoying themselves in a social manner after the sale was completed. The entertainment by the members of the Boston Conservatory of Music, on account of circumstances beyond control, was not given, but music both vocal and instrumental was pleasantly rendered. Mr.
 Lorimer, the pastor, was presented with a very pretty sofa pillow, after which he made some pleasing remarks, and suggested a vote of thanks to be given Mrs. Anderson, who had opened her house to the bazaar and had so untiringly, worked for its success. Tea, coffee and cocoa was served with cake.
 The services at the Baptist church tomorrow are: Sunday school at 2:15
 preaching at 3.00, evening service 7:30
 Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Drew, after a pleasant visit of eleven weeks with family friends in Vermont and New Hampshire, are at home at 184 Westminster ave.
 Mrs. Sadie Trefrey of Yarmouth, Nova Scotia, is the guest for the holidays of Mrs. Allen, Westminster ave.
 Go to the dedicatory exercises of the Baptist church next Wednesday prepared to give. The church building on that day should have all its indebtedness lifted.
 George Burgland, a lad of five years,
 just recovering from a broken arm, had the misfortune to break it again on Tuesday.
 Miss Emma F. Bennett attended on Thursday evening a meeting held at the First Baptist church in Woburn of the executive committee of the Middlesex Central Endeavor union. Miss Bennett is secretary of the committee.
 It is being suggested by some of the boys who were pupils in the High street Grammar school in the early sixties that a reunion of the pupils and teachers who were connected with the school from April, 1860, to April, 1863, shall be had at an early day. We surely hope the suggestion may materialize.
 Have the reunion by all means. We'll promise not to whip a "boy" or scold a "girl" on the happy occasion. Pupils of the early sixties, let us hear from you on the proposed family gathering.
 It will be seen by the programme
 which we publish, that the dedicatory services of the Arlington Heights Baptist church which occur on Wednesday afternoon and evening of next week,
 Dec. 27, must prove an event of no small interest not only to the Heights but to all Arlington as well. We congratulate our Baptist friends at the Heights upon the completion of their convenient and attractive church building. We trust that the future of their church shall go on "from prospering to prosper." May it preach but little doctrine but much gospel.
 The M. M. M. society is to give a gentlemen's night at an early date, of which we shall soon have more to say.
 What is familiarly known as the Peirce estate at the foot of the rocks, now owned by Warren A. Peirce, has been laid out into lots, with three streets leading through. The names of the streets are Peirce st., Locke st. and Clark st., names that have long been well known in Arlington.
 The teachers in the Locke school are to spend their Christmas at the old homestead. Miss Wentworth, the principal, at her home at the Heights; Miss Wiley at Fryburg, Maine; Miss Herald will eat her Christmas dinner in Boston; Miss Adams will enjoy the family Christmas tree in Wakefield;
 Miss Philbrook will spend her holiday vacation in Manchester, N. H.; Mrs.
 Bean will remain at her home on the Heights.
 Mr. and Mrs. Schenck will entertain on Christmas day at their new and pleasant home, 117 Appleton street, several of their Boston friends. Dinner at one o'clock p.m., a brilliantly illuminated and heavily laden Christmas tree in the afternoon, with luncheon and a jolly good time in the evening will be the order of the afternoon and evening. Mr. and Mrs. Schenck are to have their house decorated throughout for the occasion. No one understands the art of entertaining better than do Mr.
 and Mrs. Schenck.
 Nearly every woman on the Heights
 was in Boston on Wednesday making Christmas purchases.

What It Might Have Cost.
 In a certain town in Vermont, said
 the Boston drummer as he chewed away at a pepsin tablet, I picked up a wallet containing $500 in cash. In it were papers bearing the owner's name,
 and he proved to be the mayor of the town. I at once hunted him up and handed over his lost cash, and as he received it he looked me over and scratched the back of his head and said:
 "I shall reward you, of course. How much do you think you ought to have?"
 "Nothing whatever, sir. I am glad to restore your property."
 "But you expect something?"
 "No, sir."
 "Didn't look for me to give you a cent?"
 "Not a red."
 "It don't seem possible," he went on as he looked me over again, "but I'll have to take you at your word. Do you know what it might have cost me, sir, had any one else found this wallet?"
 "I can't say, of course."
 "I'd have had to hand over at least 10 cents, sir, and he might have struck for 15 or 25,"—Ohio State Journal.

 If you want to be made over from top to toe, just call on Dr. Ring at his sanatorium on the Heights, and let him give you a sample of the electricity that he has always ready to deal out in healthful quantities, and what is equally as good, listen to his agreeable and instructive conversation.
 In answer to your prayer for "more light," offer up your petition to R. W.
 LeBaron, 478 Mass. ave.
 For something good to eat go to the Arlington house, of which J. C. Rauch is the proprietor. And remember that you can always find a room and a bed in which you can "sleep the sleep of the just."
 If one wants an agreeable chat, all he need to do is to drop in on Matthew Rowe at his store opposite Mt. Vernon street. Mr. Rowe is always busy, and yet he always finds time to give a friendly greeting. One of, not the old est, but one of the oldest business men in Arlington, Mr. Rowe is well and pleasantly known by everybody. He deals in the best of groceries and provisions,
 and has a far-reaching patronage.
 Almost next door to Matthew Rowe may be found W. O. Menchin, the well-known carriage maker and painter,
 making carriage painting a specialty.
 Mr. Menchin promptly fills all orders in his line of work, every branch of which he well understands. Mr. Men-chin, always pleasant to meet, has been for these many years one of Arlington's business men. Always reliable, he has drawn to himself many patrons.
 We have frequently written in these columns of the obligations we are under to patronize home industries. And particularly does this obligation exist when we can purchase right here in Arlington at cheaper rates than in Boston. We made on Wednesday Robertson's furniture store, visiting each department.
 We were pleased with the arrangement,
 style and make-up of his goods throughout. We found Mr. Robertson selling the same kind of household furniture as sold in Boston at prices quite below the Boston market. For instance, you may purchase at Robertson's a sideboard for $13.98, for which in Boston you will pay $19.37. The famous Morris chair may be had at his store for $5.50, the same for which you pay $5.97 in Boston.
 Couches may be had at Robertson's ranging from $5.00 to $12.50, the same for which you pay in Boston from $7.00 to $15.00. Purchasing in any department of Mr. Robertson's store, you can buy at 10 per cent. less cost than in Boston. Now, to make good what we say, go and see for yourself Mr. Robertson's goods and get his prices.
 We don't believe there is any one in Arlington who does not know of Lawson's Pink brand canned goods and the King Arthur flour sold by Whytal &
 Son, who are up to date in everything.
 The above goods are being extensively advertised through their ready and far-reaching sale. But then Whytal & Son are in the very forefront of the grocery trade in all its departments. They serve you with the best in the market, and at reasonable prices. When making your order of them don't forget Lawson's Pink brand goods and the King Arthur flour.
 W. K. Hutchinson, the live grocery-man, is up to everything that's new.
 Just buy of Hutchinson fifty cents worth of Armour's goods, for which he is sole agent, then will Mr. Hutchinson send to Chicago your picture and have it neatly imprinted on medallion. We have seen samples of these pictures, and they are neatly done. Your best girl would prize your face in such form.
 Hutchinson always keeps in advance of the times. He anticipates the wants of his many customers. Remember that his milk, eggs, fruit and vegetables are always fresh, and in the line of provisions there is nothing he does not keep.
 His Christmas or holiday goods fill the bill. Fancy Vermont turkeys and chickens, grouse, mallard ducks, pigeons, squabs, partridges, fowls, broilers, green geese, mongol geese, rabbits, quails and so on to the end of the list. But go and see for yourself. You can't miss his store, for just at present it is surrounded with the green of Christmas. Don't forget the medallion picture.
 Yerxa & Yerxa have made a most artistic Christmas arrangement in the show windows of their neatly-arranged store. And what piles of goods they constantly have on hand for their far-reaching trade! "Look at these prices!"
 is their leader. Everything they sell is guaranteed to be as represented. This firm keeps all the leading brands of flour at Boston prices, and all delivered at your house. In the line of coffees they take the lead. Indeed they are abreast with the times in every department of the grocery business. Mr.
 Bird, the manager, well understands how to meet his many patrons.
 This column would fall short of its purpose were it not to make prominent mention of H. A. Emerson & Co., dealers in lumber, lime, cement and brick,
 whose Arlington office is on Water st.
 We have known Mr. Emerson, the senior member of the firm, since the sixties, so we know whereof we affirm
 when we declare that he means business
 every time. He takes time by the fore-

The Monument View store, 305 Broadway, of which Leonard H. Payne is the proprietor, carries a full line of choice groceries, which are sold at bottom prices. Mr. Payne's place of business is one of the most attractively-arranged and neatly-kept stores in Arlington.
 Everything has its place, and everything is in its place. We bespeak for the Monument View store a fair share of the patronage of Arlington. Mr. Payne is an enterprising young man and reliable in every way. He is here to stay, so that his interests are allied to those of Arlington. For every dollar that you expend at his store, you will get a full dollar's worth of goods. Do not forget that he sells at Boston prices.
 Drop into the Monument View store and see for yourself. Read Mr. Payne's
 ad. in another column.
 And, last of all, we direct your attention to the ad. reading "Subscribe for the Enterprise, $1.00 a year." Do it now, at the beginning of the new year
 so nearly upon us. Subscribe, we say, for the Enterprise.

ARLINGTON BOAT CLUB.
 A very pleasant evening was passed on Wednesday at the smoke talk. The attendance was very small. Arthur K.
 Peck gave a most excellent lecture on Yellowstone Park and he illustrated the same with stereopticon views. Mr.
 Peck is an interesting and instructive lecturer and he held the closest attention of his audience.

Misfortune of a Poet.
 "James has been quite unfortunate of late," said the poet's wife gloomily.
 "Had another poem declined?"
 "No; worse than that. You know,
 he has a habit of looking at the ceiling for inspiration, and last night, just as the inspiration came, a yard of plastering fell square on his head, knocking
 all the inspiration out of it!"—Atlanta Constitution.

In the Japanese temples there is a large drum used in worship. It is called kagura-talko, and it gives a tone
 much like a gong.
